Spring 2027 Tuition & Payment Information

When you register for Spring 2027 classes, you are responsible for paying the tuition and fees for those classes.

Pay by the Tuition Deadline

Your student account must be financially cleared by the tuition payment deadline. This means your balance must be covered by one or more of the following:

- Payment in full
- An approved payment plan
- Financial aid
- An approved third-party sponsor

If your account is not financially cleared by the payment deadline, you will be charged a $15 late payment fee.

If you still have a balance that is not covered by a payment plan, financial aid, or third-party sponsor, you may also be charged a monthly late payment fee.

Check Your Bill Online

CCAC billing is completely electronic. Paper bills are not mailed.

You can view your balance and billing statements anytime through the Online Student Account Center. When a new eBill is available, a notification will be sent to your official CCAC student email account.

Registering After the Payment Deadline

You can still register for classes after the tuition payment deadline. However, payment is due when you register.

Not Taking a Class? You Must Drop It

If you decide not to take a class, you must officially drop the class. Simply not attending does not remove the charges from your account.

Review CCAC's Registration Procedures for instructions on dropping a class. Be sure to also check the Spring 2027 Academic Calendar for important dates and deadlines.

For information about whether you may receive a refund after dropping a class, review CCAC's Tuition and Refund Policies.

IMPORTANT: If you do not officially drop your class(es), you will remain responsible for the tuition and fees.
